

Vegetarian Week

"Nothing human beings can do would benefit the environment more than a dramatic reduction in meat consumption. The impact of such a change on the gases in the atmosphere would be phenomenal, and would be a huge step in reducing the ominous threat of global warming," John Robbins states . . .

There is no action too small or too big, there is just action.

Take part in this revolution!

www.vegetarianweek.org